Noise is part of our everyday lives. It can be a distraction, preventing us from being able to focus. It can also be a source of irritation, negatively affecting our mood.

Our Acoustic Pods are designed to minimise the negative effects of unwanted noise, providing a tranquil place of quiet and privacy.

These versatile Pods can instantly provide a space for private conversations, video calls or simply create additional desk/meeting spaces.

Installed in just 2 hours and powered by an ordinary 3-pin plug, our Acoustic Pods can immediately add capacity to your space with minimal disruption.

Available in 5 sizes, from a 1-person phone booth to 6-person meeting space, each Acoustic Pod is available in 8 exterior finishes, 3 wood finishes and 6 upholstery finishes, all at no extra cost.

IMPROVING PATIENT EXPERIENCE

- Provide personal space to those who need it
- Help users to focus in noisy environments (e.g. SEN)
- Create dedicated sensory rooms

BOOSTING STAFF EFFECTIVENESS

- Instantly create additional desk space
- Increase meeting space capacity
- Provide privacy for sensitive conversations
- Create dedicated multi-faith spaces

MAINTAINING FAMILY RELATIONSHIPS

- Provide quiet and privacy for secure video calls in prisons and mental health environments
- Reduce the cost and impact of travelling long distances for visits

NURTURING REHABILITATION

- Create an area of focus for education and exam spaces
- Provide an area for prison resettlement hubs
- Offer self-contained libraries and study spaces

Our acoustic pods provide a private space during virtual visits, helping to strengthen family relationships

One of the things that prison staff and residents always struggled with was ensuring adequate privacy for families to have meaningful conversations

HMP OAKWOOD

Prison visits are an important way of maintaining and strengthening social relationships, which studies have linked to reduced reoffending.

At the start of the Coronavirus pandemic, face-to-face social visits in prisons were stopped to reduce the risk to the prison population.

Secure video conferencing software was quickly developed, prompting a need for quiet, private spaces for virtual visits to take place in. Our Acoustic Pods were a perfect match.

“ One of the most amazing moments was when an elderly gentleman in our care was able to video call his daughter who emigrated to Australia and hadn't seen her face in 4 years.

It was extremely moving to be able to give this gentleman a call to see his daughter during Christmas week.

When he came out he thanked the staff and had tears in his eyes. He said how grateful he was to be able to see her and was at peace that he got to see her before anything had happened to him due to being high risk.

The availability of Purple Visits has been a lifeline to some of our prisoners and their families. We have several men whose family and friends live too far away from the prison to travel and see their loved one so having the opportunity to be able to not only hear their voice but visually see them as well has helped put their minds at rest and keep their family ties stronger.

The importance of communication, especially with family or loved ones, in this environment is paramount and can prevent issues or situations from arising. **”
